DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 5, 6 and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claims 5, 6 and 8-10 recites the limitation "the grooves". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim 1-5, 9, 11, 16 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Barth (3,944,252).

Barth discloses a single-piece weight 14 to be hitched to an agricultural tractor lifting device, having a top face, a bottom, two faces oriented transverse to the direction of travel of the tractor, and two side faces substantially parallel to the direction of travel, each side face comprising a transverse eye-bolt or spindle 17 forming a means of engagement for the tractor lifting device, characterized in that it comprises at least one housing 20 opening outward and oriented so as to be able to receive at least one lift prong 10 of a load-handling device and to allow the weight to be lifted and handled by interaction of this housing and the lift prong. With respect to a single piece weight, Barth teaches integral weights 14. The housing 20 consists of at least one recessed portion of the bottom of the weight. The recessed portion comprises at least one groove extending from one edge of the bottom and emerging at at least one end.

The bottom comprises two parallel grooves and the grooves accept a substantially inverted U cross section, open downward. The grooves are parallel to the direction of the hitching eye-bolts 24.

5. Claims 1-3, 5, 7, 9, 11, 13-15 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Denby, et al. (6,533,319).

Denby discloses a single-piece weight 24 to be hitched to an agricultural tractor lifting device, having a top face 32, a bottom, two faces oriented transverse to the direction of travel of the tractor, and two side faces 28 substantially parallel to the direction of travel, each side face comprising a transverse eye-bolt or spindle 18 forming a means of engagement for the tractor lifting device, characterized in that it comprises at least one housing 36 opening outward and oriented so as to be able to receive at least one lift prong 16 of a load-handling device and to allow the weight to be lifted and handled by interaction of this housing and the lift prong. The housing 36 consists of at least one recessed portion of the bottom of the weight. The recessed portion comprises at least one groove extending from one edge of the bottom and emerging at at least one end. The bottom comprises two parallel grooves and the grooves accept a substantially inverted U cross section, open downward.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 12, 18 and 19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. Claims 6, 8 and 10 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
